

Society Should Give a Little Something in Return

SOCIETY PEOPLE SIT IN THE BOXES AT THE HORSE SHOW, FOOTBALL GAMES, AUTO RACES, OPERA ETC. AND EXPECT TO BE LOOKED AT WITHOUT DOING ANYTHING AT ALL TO ATTRACT ATTENTION.....

THE LEAST THEY CAN DO IS PERFORM A FEW TRICKS AND GIVE THE PUBLIC A RUN FOR ITS MONEY.

WANTS A DECISION ON BOWLING PRICE

Sherman Getting Alley Owners Together for Some Definite Agreement.

By R. D. THOMAS.

Frank Sherman, proprietor of the Royal, today is making a round of the alley owners for the purpose of getting them together at a meeting to decide definitely on the price of bowling.

After the plan to increase the cost from 10 cents to 15 cents a game and for two was brought forward, Sherman announced that it would be effective at his place beginning November 1. His decision was reached, he says, with the belief that the other alley owners would follow suit. Thus far none have done so, and unless they agree to raise the price within a short time, it is Sherman's intention to resume the old scale.

Washington is not likely to afford the A. C. B. A. tournament to be held at Syracuse, New York, next spring, much support. The tournament will be mostly for tenpin bowlers and many local pinspillers believe that it would not be worth while to compete because of the probable small number of duckpin entries. And again, the National Capital expects to stage an event of its own which will attract the bowlers' interest. The District Duckpin Association plans to invite all neighboring cities and towns, including Baltimore and Washington, to its annual championships, and it is believed that more will take part in it than in the A. C. B. A. tournament last spring.

One of the greatest collections of ball-line billiard players in the history of the game will be seen here this winter. Arrangements have been made to bring Willie Hoppe and his party, including Harry A. (Chick) Wright, Charles C. Peterson, and young Jack Schaefer here to perform at the Royal. Four exhibitions will be played, one in the afternoon and one at night for two days. The dates will be decided later. The cue experts at present are playing in the West.

Willie Hoppe is generally conceded to be the greatest ball player of the era. Peterson today is unequalled as a fancy shot artist. Wright is the best player hailing from the Pacific coast, and Schaefer is one of the most promising young players in the country.

The pinbow leads a pretty tough life as a rule. He suffers sundry pains from stooping over so much, is forced to bear the brunt of the irate bowler's temper, and now and then receives a more or less injurious crack on the head from a flying pin. But one at the Royal had more than his share of vicissitude to contend with the other night. In the eighth frame, he was the victim of a rat-bowler shot a ball down the gutter which struck a pin carelessly left there and the sphere bounded over two alleys and hit amidships of the Royal in question. He grunted for a while and then stolidly resumed setting 'em up.

Harry Schmidt, a member of the Western team, in the District League, holds the record for the best practice game rolled at the National Capital alleys this season. He topped 173 pins in a game last week, and a feature of the performance was that he cleaned up at pins with the exception of one in the sixth frame. Schmidt is leading the District League in average with 17.5, according to the latest figures. The bowler named Blume rolled 57 flat recently at the National Capital.

Many bowlers not otherwise enjoying themselves tonight in celebration of Halloween will have plenty to attract their attention in the match between the Krazy Kats and Ignatz, at the National Capital alleys, and the District League battle between Tom Keane's grand Central and the Continentals at the Grand Central Palace. Both start at 8 o'clock.

HUNTERS WILL SALLY FORTH TOMORROW

Woodcock, Jacksnipe, Duck, and Geese Become Targets for Nimrods.

Yo-ho! Tallyho!

And other classic language to that general effect for the hunting season is to open tomorrow!

Of course, in this day of smokeless powder, intercommunicating trench blinds, artificial and live decoys, etc., it isn't as necessary as it was in olden times, to frighten the birds and animals into a state of nervous paralysis so that the hunter might creep up on them and eat them to death with the butt of a muzzle-loading shotgun that missed on a first fire, or spear them gracefully with a lance.

The day, too, is passed when the hunter decked himself in woodland green and ramboled early through the bushes, tripping blithely over roots, "wind-sing" (early English slang for blowing) his horn, and hurled javelins made of a section of a clothespin, shod with steel, at the festive red bird as it sought safety.

Government Aids Hunter.

Nowadays the hunter writes to the Department of Agriculture, secures a chart showing what can and what cannot be shot in any given section of the United States, leaps into an automobile and goes to the section that strikes his fancy; sits in an easy chair in an especially built blind while the hired men and the bloodhounds drive a lot of trained "game" across the field in front of the hunter. If he, by accident, kills any of the game with his high-power rifle or shotgun, he not only is compelled to pay for it, but he must also supply new "game."

In the District of Columbia, Virginia, and Maryland the general hunting season opens tomorrow. There have been some kinds of game it has been lawful to shoot for several weeks or months. The season for red birds in the District, Maryland, and Virginia closes tomorrow. But for woodcock, jacksnipe, duck, goose, etc., the season opens tomorrow at all the nearby localities, and the season of hunters who will be ready to drop the ducks and geese that fly over this section in their migratory South.

In Virginia licenses are required for hunters. Aliens must pay $20; non-residents $10, and residents $1 and $1. The licenses are not transferable. They can be no hunting on Sundays or in the vicinity of public roads under penalty of a fine from $5 to $50. Applications for licenses in Virginia must be made to the county clerk.

Social Insurance To Be Discussed Here

Various Forms of Protection for Public on Program of Conference Set for December 5—Experts to Speak.

Insurance against death and fire have become quite commonplace to the average man and woman but how about these forms of insurance:

Unemployment insurance.
Compulsory invalidity and old age insurance.
Health insurance and sickness benefits.

These are only a few of the wide variety of forms of social insurance that will be discussed here at a conference December 5 to 9 called by the International Association of Industrial Accident Boards and Commissions.

Delegates from nearly every State in the Union, representatives from Canada, and perhaps from other countries, will attend, and the papers, contributed by the foremost experts in social welfare, will be published in bulletin form by the United States Department of Labor.

Important Conference.

The conference is regarded as the most significant of its kind ever held. It will bring to Washington such men as J. D. Beck, chairman of the Industrial Commission of Wisconsin; F. Spencer Baldwin, manager of the New York State Insurance fund; Lee K. Frankel, vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and Dr. Richard C. Cabot, of the Harvard Medical School.

At the evening session of December 5, President Wilson, Secretary of War Baker, Secretary of Labor Wilson, and Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, will be the speakers.

The first day's sessions will cover administration of workmen's compensation laws, accident prevention in connection with such laws, medical service.
